

2024 Membership Benefits

Independent Schools Queensland

choice & diversity

Independent Schools Queensland is the peak body representing Queensland's independent schooling sector.

We exist for our members.

ISQ is a not-for-profit membership organisation governed by a Board of Directors. Directors are appointed for three-year terms with one-third of Directors retiring each year. The Board of Directors appoints a number of committees:

- Education Committee
- Finance Committee
- Remuneration and Nominations Committee.

The Board also establishes sub-committees to consider specific issues from time to time.

The ISQ Annual General Meeting will be held on 29 May 2024.

Since it was first formed in 1968, Independent Schools Queensland (ISQ) has remained committed to supporting choice and diversity in education while representing the interests of independent schools across Queensland.

ISQ is continually reviewing and expanding support services and resources for member schools to ensure you remain up-to-date with significant policy changes and have the necessary support to enhance your school services.

Membership of ISQ entitles your school to many benefits from a wide range of services created specifically to meet your needs.

2024 Emerging Issues

ISQ will be advocating vigorously at the state level throughout this election year, with a clear focus on capital funding certainty and security for its member schools. Ensuring the independent school sector can effectively plan and develop its infrastructure to meet the needs of its students, and be ready for significant projected population growth across Queensland, must be seen by governments as a strategic priority and investment in the future of education. By securing long-term commitments from the State Government and opposition and fostering collaborative partnerships, ISQ endeavours to create an environment where independent schools can thrive and continue to provide quality education for a growing number of Queensland students.

In conjunction with the sector's national peak body, Independent Schools Australia (ISA), ISQ will be advocating for critical issues including:

- The review of the new National School Reform Agreement
- Federal school funding issues
- Teacher recruitment and retention issues
- Student and staff wellbeing.

Leading Advocacy and Influence

ISQ provides a united and powerful voice for independent schools in policy and funding debates. ISQ represents and promotes the unique and diverse needs of independent schools, and champions for them in times of reform. ISQ regularly:

- meets with the Education Minister and State and Commonwealth department officers to discuss current issues of concern to independent schools
- lodges submissions on government policy or funding proposals which may impact independent schools
- hosts functions for member schools to network with key political representatives and business and community leaders
- represents the interests of the independent sector on a large range of boards, committees and advisory groups
- provides a strong representative voice for independent schools in the media.

Your membership also supports the work of ISA – an advocacy body which represents the needs and interests of independent schools at a national level.

ISQ Key Programs

ISQ offers a range of options to support schools to meet challenges while striving to continuously deliver excellent student outcomes through the following:
